6 KATHERINE MAYORGA,
7 Plaintiff,

8 v.

9 CRISTIANO RONALDO,
10 Defendant.

Case No. 2:19-cv-00168-JAD-DJA

ORDER

12 This matter is before the Court on Defendant's Motion to Extend Time (ECF No. 90), 13 filed on March 31, 2021. Plaintiff filed a Response (ECF No. 95) on April 14, 2021 and 14 Defendant filed a Reply (ECF No. 97) on April 21, 2021. This matter is also before the Court on 15 Defendant's Motion for Protective Order (ECF No. 92) and Sealed Document (ECF No. 93), filed
16 on April 2, 2021. Plaintiff filed a Response (ECF No. 96) on April 15, 2021 and Defendant filed
17 a Reply (ECF No. 98) on April 22, 2021. The Court finds these matters appropriately resolved
18 without a hearing. LR 78-1.

19 I. BACKGROUND

20 Defendant seeks an extension of the discovery deadlines for 90 days because Plaintiff has 21 delayed receipt of the remaining discovery by failing to timely provide authorizations and 22 engaging in a Ninth Circuit appeal, which she later voluntarily dismissed. It bears noting that 23 Plaintiff's Response is 88 pages which is excessive for this simple issue. In general, Plaintiff
24 claims that Defendant has failed to make timely disclosures and the delay in conducting discovery
25 is completely Defendant's fault. Defendant replies that since the filing of his Motion to Extend, 26 Plaintiff has provided additional authorizations which should advance discovery. However, 27 discovery requests to Plaintiff's prior counsel have not been well received and the parties are 28

1 attempting to address that dispute. The parties are also working on scheduling depositions prior 2 to the close of discovery.

3 Defendant also requests that the Court enter a protective order to govern the exchange of 4 confidential discovery documents. He represents that Plaintiff's Counsel previously indicated
5 agreement to a protective order, but is now refusing without any identifiable rationale. Defendant
6 contends that a protective order is necessary because discovery documents to be exchanged
7 concern attorney correspondence, medical information, and the confidential settlement
8 agreement. Plaintiff responds noting that the Court previously ruled that a blanket sealing of this 9 entire case is not supported at the time. She also contends that Defendant must establish a 10 compelling reason to seal his initial disclosures. Defendant replies that the proper legal standard 11 for a protective order is good cause. Further, the only issue left for the court to decide is 12 Plaintiff's alleged incapacity to contract; all other issues were compelled to arbitration. To 13 preserve the confidentiality of the confidential settlement agreement and arbitration process, 14 Defendant contends that a protective order is necessary.

15 II. DISCUSSION

16 Preliminarily, this is not the first time that the Court has instructed the parties to change 17 the case caption and will reiterate that all future filings need to have the correct case number with 18 the ending initials DJA.

19 With respect to Defendant's request for an extension of 90 days to the discovery 20 deadlines, the Court finds good cause and excusable neglect supports granting it. The Court is 21 mindful of resolving this case on the merits and will not deny Defendant this narrowly tailored 22 opportunity to complete the discovery he contends is necessary for his defense. Defendant
23 appears to have diligently attempted to complete the discovery but expended time on the Ninth
24 Circuit appeal process that Plaintiff initiated, which has now been resolved. Further, it does not 25 appear as though Plaintiff's Counsel took this Court's admonition to meet and confer very 26 seriously. Plaintiff is clearly aware of the outstanding discovery but is laser focused on 27 expanding the scope of this case. The Court again reminds Plaintiff's Counsel that it expects a 28 good faith meet and confer on all discovery disputes to avoid wasting valuable court resources on

1 issues that can be resolved via stipulation. Plaintiff did not articulate any prejudice that would 2 result to her for a mere 90 day extension and the Court cannot find any given that the trial date
3 has not been set and discovery efforts by both sides are still ongoing.

4 As for Defendant's request for a protective order, the Court likewise finds it to be 5 meritorious. Fed.R.Civ.P. 26(b)(1) provides for broad and liberal discovery. "Parties may obtain 6 discovery regarding any nonprivileged matter that is relevant to any party's claim or defense." Id.
7 However, a court may limit discovery via Rule 26(c), which permits the court to issue a 8 protective order to protect a party or person from annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or 9 undue burden or expense when the party establishes good cause. For good cause to exist, the 10 party seeking protection bears the burden of showing specific prejudice or harm will result if no
11 protective order is granted. See Beckman Indus., Inc., v. Int'l. Ins. Co., 966 F.2d 470, 476 (9th 12 Cir. 1992).

13 Rule 26(c) requires more than "broad allegations of harm, unsubstantiated by specific 14 examples or articulated reasoning." Id.; see also Foltz v. State Farm, 331 F.3d 1122, 1130 (9th 15 Cir. 2003) (citing San Jose Mercury News, Inc., v. District Court, 187 F.3d 1096, 1102 (9th Cir.
16 1999) (holding that the party must make a particularized showing of good cause)). The Supreme 17 Court has interpreted the language of Rule 26(c) as conferring "broad discretion on the trial court 18 to decide when a protective order is appropriate and what degree of protection is required."
19 Seattle Times Co. v. Rhinehart, 467 U.S. 20, 36 (1984). Additionally, the Supreme Court has 20 acknowledged that the "trial court is in the best position to weigh fairly the competing needs and 21 interests of the parties affected by discovery. The unique character of the discovery process 22 requires that the trial court have substantial latitude to fashion protective orders." Id.

23 This matter centers around a Settlement and Confidentiality Agreement ("SCA") that 24 contains a confidentiality provision. Plaintiff's position that a protective order governing the 25 exchange of discovery documents is not needed is not substantially justified given the nature of 26 this case. Rather, she appears to confuse the sealing standard with a protective order governing 27 discovery documents. As Defendant highlights, the Court has already granted sealing requests of 28 confidential communications with counsel and the SCA. Moreover, the bench trial before the

1 District Judge focuses on Plaintiff's mental capacity, which naturally involves discovery into her
2 medical records. The Court finds good cause to enter a protective order such that the parties can 3 exchange such discovery materials without fear of disclosure. It is not making any ruling on 4 future sealing requests and does not find imposing a protective order to prejudice Plaintiff in any 5 way.
